[1] In Africa, there is an interesting festival that honors the spirits of water, called the Water Spirit Festival. This festival is celebrated in different areas across African countries. Interestingly, each festival has its own special traditions and customs.

[2] During the Water Spirit Festival, people come together to show respect to the spirits believed to live in rivers and lakes. The festival usually includes rituals, ceremonies, and performances to make these spirits happy and ask for their help for the community's well-being.

[3] The Osun God Festival in Nigeria and the Rain-Making Dance Festival in Botswana show the traditions and culture of their communities. In Zimbabwe, the Festival celebrating the spirit called NyamiNyami is famous for asking the protection of the local river. This festival celebrates the richness of food and life connected to the river. It is important to understand the special cultural meanings and backgrounds of each festival.

[4] One common part of the Water Spirit Festival is giving gifts to the spirits. These gifts often include fruits, flowers, and handmade arts. People put them near rivers or lakes to show respect and thanks. In some places, there are colorful parades, and people sing and dance to traditional music on their way to the rivers or lakes.

[5] Another important part of the festival is the water cleaning ceremonies. By going into rivers, it is believed that people can refresh their spirits. These ceremonies clean not only the body, but also the mind, and the spirit.

[6] The Water Spirit Festival is also a time for communities to enjoy and build strong relationships among them. Families and friends gather to share meals, give gifts to each other, and enjoy musical performances together. It is a time of joy and festivals, as people come together to respect their cultural tradition and make their connections with one another stronger.

- (1) According to the paragraphs [1] and [2], where are the spirits believed to live in?
- (2) Which spirit do people celebrate for the richness of food and life related to the river?
- (3) What is one common part of the Water Spirit Festival?
- (4) How do people refresh their spirits?
- (5) According to the paragraph [6], what do communities build through the Water Spirit Festival?

- 6 次の英文を読み、問いに対する答えとして最も適切なものをそれぞれア～エの中から選び、記号で答えなさい。

Clara Barton was born in North Oxford, Massachusetts. She was the youngest of five children. Her older brothers taught her how to ride horses and play sports. Clara was very shy, and her family worried about her. When she grew up, Clara became a teacher. She worked for many years and started the first free school in New Jersey. But when the school grew, she could not become the principal because she was a woman. Then, she moved to Washington D.C. and got a job at *the U.S. Patent Office. She earned the same pay as men, which was very rare at that time.

On April 12, 1861, *the Civil War started. Many soldiers were hurt and brought to Washington, but Clara saw that the government was not ready to help them. She asked the government for almost a year to let her bring medical supplies to the battlefields. Finally, they said yes. Clara went to some of the hardest battles, like Second Manassas, Antietam, and Fredericksburg. The soldiers called her the "angel of the battlefield" because of her nursing work.

After the war, Clara helped to build graves for 13,000 soldiers who died at a prison camp in Andersonville, Georgia. She also became the first woman to lead the Office of Missing Soldiers, where she helped find soldiers who were lost. In 1869, a doctor told Clara to go to Switzerland to help in *the Franco-Prussian War (1870-71). She learned about the Red Cross, an organization that helped people during wars.

When Clara came back to the U.S., she started the American Red Cross. On May 21, 1881, the U.S. government agreed to make it a group to help people after natural disasters. Clara was the president of the American Red Cross until she retired in 1904. She also helped the U.S. take part in *the Geneva Convention, which made rules for helping people during wars. Clara won many awards for her work and died at the age of 90.

Last Sunday, I went to the park with my friends. The weather was sunny, and we were excited to play outside. We met at the park at 11:00 a.m. I brought a ball, and my friend, Kevin, brought some snacks. Our friends, Jiro and Yuki, also came. Jiro brought a frisbee, and Yuki brought some snacks and a big water bottle because it was a hot day.

First, as soon as we arrived at the park, we played soccer. We made two teams. I was on Kevin's team, and Jiro and Yuki were on the other team. We played for about one hour. It was very fun, but we got tired because we were running a lot. After the game, we drank some water and rested for 10 minutes.

Next, we sat under a big tree and ate Kevin's snacks. Kevin's snacks were chips and cookies. They were delicious. We shared the snacks with everyone. We talked and laughed while we ate. It was a nice time to relax.

After eating, we decided to walk around the park. Yuki had some candies, so we ate them while we were walking. There was a small pond in the park, but there were no fish. We saw some ducks swimming in the water. We also saw some people walking their dogs. The dogs were cute, and some were very big. They were friendly and soft.

At 2:00 p.m., we decided to go home. We were tired but happy. It was a great day at the park. I hope we can go there again soon.
